

Connecting New

May, 2022

This month I offer a question that has only correct answers, answers that vary from person to person and even from day to day. I welcome you to share some of your answers with me or anyone else you wish.

Colors

What is the color of love for you today?

Peaceful blue, unfathomably deep and pure,
the kind of peace that surpasses understanding and remains no matter the circumstances?

Perhaps vibrant green, the color of abundant, organic life, ever inviting to the more, to fullness?

Or the storms of compassion, suffering and fear, the sense of isolation that threatens, that can be assuaged with your loving presence?

And sometimes it must be the gentle yellow of the sun's glory reflected on a full moon heaven, when awe and beauty and gratitude and selflessness and unity overtake us.

Amen, amen, it must be said that without the radiance of the moon our world would be incomplete.

Without the radiance of you, our world would be incomplete.

The day I painted the following I was feeling very loved and flowing from that, deeply grateful.

May our love reflect the beauty and glory of God.

Peace and Blessings,
Clarence

If this has been forwarded to you and you would like to receive future Connecting New emails, subscribe here. An archive of past emails can be found on the Connecting New page of www.clarenceheller.com. Also, if you do not already receive A Piece of Goodness, a positive and often provoking daily excerpt from one of Clarence's poems, with convenient access to the entire poem for those who wish to engage it, subscribe here.

Visit A Piece of Goodness on social media.

